

Reflection #4

I learned about our topic of foster care that 25% of the homeless were from the foster system and many of the people in prison were from the system too. I learned that when I work with others I learn more because we all collaborate with our information. For our board background we did 3 homes and in each home they child gets older and sadder. This shows over time and change in the child's feelings. We also put gate icons on the board and made it blend in with the theme of the house. For our supplemental piece we haven't gotten it figured out but we were thinking about making a suitcase that opens, since the foster children take their little things from house to house. Also, maybe a teddy bear or a necklace that reminds them of their birth parents or something that gives them comfort. To successfully complete this component of this project I need to make sure I spend more time at home working on it and make it as clean as possible. For the board we didn't work on it at home as much, so I'm plan to work on it more and also for the driving question for the board a lot of glue stains were left on the letters. Are collaboration is good we all work together and learn more about our topic. The only thing that isn't working well is that we only do our board together for mentorship and it's hard communicating during class, since Nidia and I have a different LA period than Sofia.
